Dear sir/madam,

As a homeowner with a family of four, I think this scheme is an unwelcome tax.

I pay panda waste for my general waste and recycling waste, so under this scheme I will pay twice. Unless I remove all the plastic bottles and cans from my recycling bin, stockpile them at the side of the house and eventually drive them back to the shop or wherever for the refund, this is ridiculous.

Can the Irish government please stop copying other European cities which have higher density urban living and trying to implement these unsuitable methods.

If this deposit scheme goes ahead I will put all my recycling into the general waste from then on, as I don't have the time or desire to be a part time bin man and will have no desire to pay panda waste for my recycling waste.

Regards
