Hi,
My household is all for this.
I hope any bottles or tins can be returned to any retailer regardless of the place of purchase. I think this will only work if it is very convenient. The majority of these items I see around are thrown around in places like parks. You should consider operating recycling bins as well as regular bins in parks and by etc. These items do not get recycled because it isn't convenient to do so.
I try to live a zero waste life and so do not buy plastic wrapping or bottles of any kind, these are just my observations.

Thanks
