Hiya,

The Deposit Return Scheme is not a new thing.

In the 1960's & 1970's, all the soft drinks were delivered in glass bottles. If you brought the empty glass bottle back to the shop, you got a shilling.

Glass bottles were never dumped on the roadside, because the likes of me & young lads like me were constantly looking for empty Coca-Cola, 7Up, Taylor Keith & Lucozade bottles to bring back for the shilling. And with the proceeds we bought footballs & played in the street until it was too dark to see the football anymore.

I suggest you stop consulting about it & just make it happen. It has been done in Ireland before, successfully.

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]
