To whom it may concern,

I am emailing you to endorse implementing the Deposit Return Scheme.

I am half German and have spent alot of time in Germany. They use a similar system and it works really well.

This system prevents plastic bottles from being littered as the incentive to get the few cents back is a reward. I know a lot of people that have stopped buying plastic bottles all together because of climate change fears.

Spending money, makes money so knowing that plastic bottles will actually be recycled properly would make myself and others more likely to buy a bottle of Ballygowan, and in turn put money back into irish economy.

I hope you consider my opinion on this and look to take steps to follow the Paris agreement, as well as reaching our goal in 2050.

Kind regards,
