

Clinical Biochemist

The Minister for Health is the Competent Authority (under the S.I<sup>1</sup>. implementing the EU Professional Qualifications Directive<sup>2</sup>) for the recognition of non-Irish qualifications in biochemistry, for the purpose of employment in the publicly funded health sector (HSE or HSE funded service). The assessment processes of the Directive are also applied to applications for recognition of qualifications which are outside the Directive's scope (i.e. non-EEA qualifications or EEA qualifications of non-EEA nationals)

The minimum approved academic qualification necessary for appointment as a Biochemist - Basic Grade in the publicly funded health sector is a BSc (Hons)/BA (Mod) in a subject area related to clinical biochemistry/laboratory medicine and diagnostics, or equivalent.

There is no formal application form. Applicants should submit:

1. a cover letter of application;
2. a copy of your original diploma/degree;
3. a transcript of all examination results showing subjects studied and grades obtained;
4. a certified statement from the relevant educational institute detailing the syllabus of the course of education and training which you undertook i.e. subjects taken in each year, subject content, number of hours of study in each subject, practice placements (i.e. type, location, duration, supervision), etc.;
5. documentation to indicate that your qualification entitles you to practise as a biochemist in the country where you qualified, if relevant;
6. details of your professional experience, if any (i.e. name(s) and address(es) of employer(s), type of hospital or institution, employment commencement and cessation dates, title of post held, full-time status, practical experience in the profession);
7. evidence of your professional experience (i.e. letters of confirmation from your employer(s), references etc.);
8. Citizenship:
  - a) photographic proof of identity – passport;
  - b) documentary evidence of your citizenship (if different to passport) - birth certificate;
  - c) a marriage certificate, if applicable, where there is a change of surname.

All documentation must be witnessed as true copies of the originals and certified translations of the originals must be provided, where necessary.

Your documentation should be accompanied by a cheque, postal order or bank draft for €150 made payable to the Association of Clinical Biochemists in Ireland (the advisory body to the Competent authority) and drawn on an Irish bank. Under no circumstances should cash accompany this application.
