NEW EMPLOYER: • Part 2 of this form should be retained by you. Part 3 (and Part 1 if still attached) should be retained by the employee.

- Social insurance contributions are payable on an employee's reckonable earnings up to a prescribed earnings ceiling.
- Where an employee, on commencement of employment during an income tax year, produces this form (or a P45) you can assume that any PRSI contributions due on the reckonable earnings shown on the form have already been paid. This social insurance liability in respect of your employment will then be calculated on the difference in earnings between the reckonable earnings shown on this form (or P45) and the prescribed ceiling. You should note that certain levies may continue to be payable above the ceiling.
- Full details of the social insurance rates and ceilings are set out in the information leaflet SC7 which is available on website at Gov.ie or at LoCall 1890 690 690 (from Ireland only) or telephone +353 1 471 5898 (from outside Ireland) or e-mail E101spc@Welfare.ie
